As a young PhD from Croatia who is willing to improve knowledge and skills by cooperating and working with the leading scientists in the field of spatial planning, environmental management and demography I can ensure that my devoted work will benefit any scientific team. After the completion of doctoral study at the Faculty of Science in Zagreb and 4 years of scientific research in the fields of demography and social geography at the "Institute of Social Sciences Ivo Pilar" I am eager to resume my training at other respected research institutes and universities in this field of science. My previous experience, desire for the hard work, flexibility and open-mindedness, as well as the high communication skill and ability to work in all kind of science teams are my strong qualities and will surely benefit any scientific team.

Sports: team sports (basketball, football, waterpolo)

High organisational skills: organisation and preparing science teams on case studies of rural reconstruction and rural-urban polarisation within the areas of Zagorje and Slavonia.

Student's Representative at the Faculty of Science in Zagreb in 2003-2007 (regular meeting with the Rector on student affairs).

Assisting in the organization of lectures and exams in courses: "Demography" and "Geography of the sea" in the Faculty of Science in Zagreb.

Participation in various seminars and congresses on cultural, scientific and social issues.

Organisation of lectures with presentations.

Organisation of exams for students.

High Computer and Internet skills

GIS Software (ArcGis)

Statistical software (Stata, MathLab)

Popular science articles writing (example: Introduction of Gis-technology in modern geography measuring)

Travels: many travels across the world, and especially in Europe, for holidays, for work or for extracurricular activities. Special interest for European landscape and environmental planning in nature protected areas. Interest in demography and demographic research.

Yes, since 2007.
